The Star also says: "A great number of prominent democrats insist that the vote of Georgia cannot be counted. While it is true the state law prescribes that electors shall meet on the first Wednesday in December, the constitution likewise provides that congress many determine the time of choosing electors, and the day on which they shall give their votes shall be the same throughout the United States. Statements, lest individuals should stifler. We have been assured on excellent authority, that the unsatisfactory issue of many prosecutions at the winter assizes is easily accounted for. At first the jurors stayed away from the assizes, preferring to be fined rather than to face the risk of having to convict persons, but the land league ordered several jurors to attend and they obeyed, and the prisoners were acquitted in the teeth of evidence against them."

A dispetch from Dublin to the Pail Mall Gazette this evening says: "The activity shown by the government has done a good deal 40 create a feeling of recovering confidence. The authorities are getting more help from the local magistrates."

It seems that the Norwegian ship Juno which was seized by the customs authorities at the mouth of the Shannon, Ireland, on Wednesday last, had started from Queenstown for New York, but was driven back into the Shannon by the stress of weather. The customs authorities took charge of the vessel as a natural result of the character of her cargo. There does not seem to have been any surreptitious at tempt to land arms, though in the presence of a considerable number of Irish Americans in that district.

THE GREEK QUESTION.

LONDON, December 24.—The Berlin correspondent of the Times says: The Greek minister here, up to a late hour Thursday, had received no circular such as reported in an Athens dispatch to have been sent by Premier Coumoundouras to the representatives of Greece acroad, instructing them to decline any proposal for European arbitration if offered.

BERLIN, December 24.—The refusal of Greece to submit to the arbitration has not interrupted the "pourparlers" between the powers, as they do not regard Greece's refusal as her last word. News has been received from Paris to the effect that all the powers have accepted the arbitration in principle. It is proposed that further teat ment of the matter be arranged by correspondence between the powers. Up to the present none of the powers have suggested that the negotiations should assume the form of a conference.

Mr. Comstock was in New York. Anderson, the colored man, loaded schotgus and started for the Fairchild cottage, joined by Mr. Wm. Hamilton, who had heard the shricks for help. The villains fled, Anderson sending a heavy charge of shot after them. The villagers were aroused and pursuit was made without success.

These debts at the date of the mortgage, Cutober 1, 1876, have been paid except the sum of $3,316 $7, due E. Clayton, with interest from August, 1876, and some smaller sums, all of which are stated in the master's report. We do not think that under that section the claimants have any lieu.

It has been suggested to us by counsel since the argument that the case of Brooks vs. railway company, 101, United States, has an important bearing upon this case, but we think the suprementating in the meaning of their mechanic's lien law, in Nelson & Benton vs. the I.wa railway company; construing section 18:5 of the code of 1:60, which resembles the North Carolina statutes, and reversed their judgaent after the law was amended.

resigned his seat and came home to Georgia, canvassed the state, and was triumphantly elected governor. He recommended the repeal of the act of sale, which was unanimously done. To manifest his indignation, and so far as he could to obliterate the act and its memory, had a gallows erected in the two of Louisville, and a ryre of pine knots built under it, and at the head of the legislaturere with the offensive act carried before the procession, marched from the state house to the place of public execution, and the act, with every record of its existence was placed upon this pyre, when Jackson addressed the legislature and the assembled multitude of the people, declaring the indignation of Heaven should sanctify the act—when with a promethean or sun-glass, he with the concentrated rays of the sun's light, set fire to the faggots, and thus as far as he could obliterated the Yazoc records. This, as he supposed, was the end of the shameless and most corrupt transaction.

When Governor Mathews had concluded to approve the act and sign the bill, he sent for his sons, George and Charles Mathews, who, as he had learned, had been given quite an amount of the script or stock, and said to them: "I understand you have been given by Hampton and Gunn a number of shares in this Yazoo company. That this was done to influence my action in the matter, I have not a doubt. Now, under my oath, I deem it my imperative duty to approve this act. I believe the whole transaction to be a fraud; but of this I have no influence my public acts. But both of you expended is assets, the stockholders resolved, ou the 9th of August 1576, to issue and sell bonds to the smount of $570,000 and to secure their payment and interest on them by a mortgage upon the cons. The mortgage was duly executed by the company on the list day of October, 1576, and the bonds to the amount of $62,000 were sold or hypothecated, and the little section of the mortgage which is filed as an exhibit, contains the conditions of it and the powers granted to the trustee's mortgages thereunder. It was not seriously contended in the argument that the defendant company had not power to make the mortgage, or that the conditions had not been broken at the commencement of this action. The master so finds and his report is hereby confirmed.

The dele dant creditors claim that they, as contactors and laborers, have a lien upon the road, if the court should decree a sale.

This is the principal question in the case.

These lien claimants are of two classes:

These lien claimants are of two classes:

These len claimants are of two classes:

These the protected of the sale of the state courts, but claim a lien by statute.

Of the first class are Fry & Deal, John Carrison, Brice & Coleman and T. G. Williamson, whose claims are fully set out in the master's report.

Except as post-poned to the mortgage debt.

It is not necessary, in our opinion, to argue whether or not these lien claims were filed under the provisions of the state law. In each case the work was done and the lien filed subsequent to the execution of the mortgage; but we think the statute upon which the claims are based does not apply to railroads. Battle's Revisal, chap, 65

No case has been cited where any court in North Carolina has held that such a lien was within the purpose or meaning of the statute, although the statute upon which the claims are based does not apply to railroads. Battle's Revisal, chap, 65 work with a will to extricate the dead and dying, and after quite an amount of labor their work was rewarded, but the sight that met their eyes was indeed harrowing. Keys was horribly mutilated—his left leg being torn to shreds and his face and body literally cooked and scalded. A stack of twood entered his abdomen and was driven in too his body, tearing it almost asunder. The bones of his leg were broken in pieces, the ends of which profunded through the mutilated flesh. His foot was almost detached from his leg and the sight made the stoutest turn with shuddering from its contemplation.

Over his left eye was a terrible bruise and the side of his face was bady mashed. There he lay, his full, handsome beard matted with the blood bruised from his body, which, but a moment before, was full of life and health.

The members of congress have departed to their respective homes, but they cannot truthfully boast of the amount of public business they disposed of during the present month. The house did pass the four least important appropriation bills, but the senate did nothing worth speaking of, except to pass the educational bill and confirm a few nominations. Christmas is Coming! BY MARY D. BRINE.

"Christmas is com ng!" the children cry, counting the days that are hurrying by, Dear little children, who live at home, And do not guess what it is to roam From more till night, with stockingless feet Up and down, through the ice and sleet.

"Christmas is coming!" thinks Tiny Tim, But what can the Christmas do for him? His home is a cellar, his daily bread The crumbs that remain when the rich are fed. No piace to be glad in under the sun? That wonderful fellow, old Santa Claus, That wonderful tellow, our salus, claus, who never is idle a moment, because He is kept so busy with piling the toys Into the stockings of girls and boys; No wonder he sometimes forgets, you know, Into the homes of the poor to go!

But, dear little children, you understand That the rich and poor all over the land Have one dear Fatner who watches you, And grieves or smiles at the things you do. And some of His children are poor and sad, And some are always merry and glad.

Christmas will bring to you many Joys—Food and plenty, frolic and toys:
Christmas to some will bring nothing at all,
In p'ace of laughter the tears will fall,
Poor little Tim to your door may come—
Your blessings are many—spare him some!

The Christmas bells will sweetly ring
The song that the angels love to sing.
The song that came with the Saviour's birth,
"Peace, Good Will, and Love on Earth!"
Dear little children, ring, I pray,
Sweet bells in some lonely heart to-day! The Cotton Exposition of 1881.

The Cetton Exposition of 1881.

The proposition for a great cotton exhibition at some central point in the south, made first by Mr. Atkinson, and earnestly advocated by this journal from its first issue, has been finally brought into d-finite form and a complete organization effected at Atlanta, Ga., on the 21 of the present month. The publishers of this journal decided to take an active part in a plan of such vast value to the textile interests of the country, and for that purpose visited Atlanta and presented the subject in its broadest and most liberal aspects to the leading citizens. They were cordially received, and the purpose of their visit becoming gone ally known, a public meeting was called on December 1st, at which the preliminaries were considered, a more general meeting followed on December 1st, at which the preliminaries were considered, a more general meeting followed on December 1st, at which the preliminaries were considered, a more general meeting followed on December 1st, at which the preliminaries were considered, a more general meeting followed on December 1st, at which the preliminaries were considered, a more general meeting followed on December 1st, at which the preliminaries were considered, a more general meeting followed on December 1st, at which the preliminaries were considered, a more general meeting followed on the contract of the plant, the first the concerns the growth of the plant, the first lization and treatment of the crop, the handling of the staple in every form, and the commercial disposal of all raw cotton; and also its manufacture in every form, and the commercial disposal of all raw cotton; and also its manufacture in every form, and the commercial disposal of all raw cotton; and also its manufacture in every form, and the commercial disposal of all raw cotton; and also its manufacture in every form, and the commercial disposal of all raw cotton; and also its manufacture in every form, and the commercial disposal of all raw cotton; and also its manufacture in every for

The Atlanya Constitution constantly carries a considerable array of paying advertisements, and that paper in turn, as is well known, has actually built up a large, thriving and prosperous city, upon the ruins of what was left from sherman's "march to the sea." Houston Home Journal,

We do not always agree with THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION, but we do admire its able and consistent course in uphoiding the acts of the railroad commission of Georgia, and the law creating it. No chartered institutions should be Leadville, (Col.,) Democrat.

The first volume of Gambetta's speeches will be published in Paris this week. His object is said to be two-fold. The book will give rise to a controversy about himself, which he considers a very useful introduction to his electioneering campaign; and, next, it will do something toward his election to the Academie Francaise. There can be no doubt that he would be made a member of the Forty as soon as he expressed a ber of the Forty as soon as he expressed desire to that effect and there was a sea vacant. Academicians would all gladly vote for him, if it were only for the sake of his being received by the Duke de Broglie and M. Jules Simon.

We were pained to learn on Friday last of the death of Hon. John Wilcox, the present representative of Telfair county in the legislature, which occurred at his home on Thursday the 16th instant. He arrived home from Atlanta on Sunday before his death, having been detailed since the adjournment of the legislature in consequence of an attack of pneumonia contracted in that city a few days before the close of the session. On his return home Sunday Mr. Clark Wilcox, his brother, saw him and though he was convalescing—hence the statement last week in these columns to that effect. We are at this time without further particulars, except as to the statewas a good cluster, a sound, practical thinker, and represented his county a number of times in the general assembly, with great credit to himself and his constituents. Although not specially gifted as a public debater, yet his practical good sense and integrity highly fitted him for the position with which the people of his county had so repeatedly honored him. He was advanced in age, having perhaps lived his three score and ten. He has many friends all over the state who will regret to learn of his death. NERVOUS DISORDERS. THE MERITS OF THE WELL KNOWN RESTORATIVE PILLS OF DB. RICORD.

There are many conditions of nervous prostration in which the timely administration of proper remedies will relieve distress, impart strength in place of debility, and aid in curing disease. The class of disorders to which we refer is quite common and prevails among men of business, students, literary men, lawyers, and clergymen, as well as those who have become debilitated from any cause.

Medical men who devote their talents to the discovery of remedies which heal this large class of diseases, should be regarded as conferring an inestimable boon upon mankind and be ranked amorg public benefactors. The valuable Restorative Pills of Dr. Ricord, which are for sale by Mr. R. L. De Lisser, at No. 23 Beekman street, New York, and Lamar, Rankin & Lamar, of this ci y, are well-known standard remedies, of a superior character, and are a specific in cases of nervous prostration, exhausted vitality, and physical debility. These pills are sugar-coated and purely veetable, and are prepared with the strictes care after the formula of the distinguished Dr. Ricord, for which Mr. De Lisser had the sagacity and enterprise to pay the large sum of five thousand dollars. The Restorative Pills have received the indorsement of the Academy of Paris and of the chief medical celebrities of the world. We take great pleasure, therefore, in bringing the emedicines to the notice of the afflicted, and hope they will confer with Mr. De Lisser, who will cheerfully give the fullest information in reference to these pills—Merchants' and Manufacturers' Review.

—The only two English monastic establishments in France, the Benedictine college at Doual in the Department du Nord, and the Passoninist Fathers in the Avenue de la Reine Hortense in Paris, have both been left unmolested by the interference of Sir Charles Dilke, under secretary for for eign affairs. The monastery and church of the latter were built on a very expensive site, purchased chiefly by the contributions of the Princess Eugenie and some wealthy Americans.

—New Jersey has an area of about 5 200 acres devoted to cranberry culture in Camden, Burlington, Ocean, Atlantic, Monmouth and Middlesex counties, and it is estimated that there are fully 19 000 acres of land in these counties especially adapted to the cultivation of this fruit. At present there are about $2,000,000 invested in the business. It is claimed that the New Jersey berries excel in flavor those of any other section of the country. The rot and the "scald" are the two principal obstacles to contend with in raising the fruit, the cultivation of which is extending every year, though it is not so profitable as formerly.

An Appeal in Behaif of the Atlanta Hospital.

At a time of such frequent calls upon the generosity of Atlanta's citizens, it is no welcome task to tax them with additional claims, but we appeal in no ordinary cause.

Their generosity in the past has done much. The frequent appeals of hierary and religious institutions, and of other enterprises, in advancement of Atlanta's wealth, prosperity and popularity, have met with a ready response. We rely upon the same public sprited generosity, in the cause for whice we piead.

Peding the great need for such an institution, we inaugurated the city hospital, of Atlanta, some months ago. Experience has proved its necessity, it great capacity for present good and future benefit. Cities of inferior size and wealth have long conducted like institutions. Let it not be said that Atlanta stands first in all else than humanity.

The pastor was also made the recipient of a donation of some highly appreciated ar ticles.

The Sunday-school of the First Presbyterian church will celebrate Christmas to-morrow evening at the church, at three o'clock.

Marietts street M. E. Church will have a Christmas tree and magic lantern displayat the church to-night. Tuesday night Bishop Warren will lecture on the subject, "Forces of the Sunbeams."

The Third Presbyterian Sunday-school had their Christmas tree last night.

Payne's chapel will have a "Christmas arbor" Monday night. Instead of a tree a tastily arranged arbor will be used and the presents placed thereon. The effect will no doubt be pleasing.

The Third Baptist church had a Christmas tree last night. The church was projusily decorated. Rev. A. J. Rippy and M. V. James, an Indian from the Indian Territory, were present. Mr. Rippy will preach at the church Sunday morning, and Mr. James will preach at hight. Mr. James entertained the audience last night with a song.

Trinity church had a Christmas celemanity.

The assignment of the affairs of Welch & Bacon to Nelsons Tift will guarantee a careful management and a satisfactory settlement as it is evident that the liabilities are not far in excess of the assets even if they are equal to them.

In support of the statement made yesterday that business in Atlanta and Georgia generally was teing conducted on more solid principles, we may quote the following from the reference book of R. G. Dun & Co., for 1881:

The chances of success are certainly infinitely better than at any time for seven years, for the large army whose names are enrolled in the solid columns of the within book. The year which is now closing has settled and confirmed the prospect with which it opened, and a large, and, in the main, profitable business has ben transacted. The uncertainty which attended mercantile transactions up to eighteen months ago, has given place to a feeling of security that even a year ago was absent, owing to the speculative tendencies which prevailed at that time. The productive forces of the country have been developed with a rapidity unparalleled in the history of the world, and the power of absorption at home and abroad has, in a degree almost phenomenal, kept pace therewith. The result has been that the opportunities for the transaction of successful business have been made available by the great number of business men who were in a condition of preparedness, from many years of conservative operations, and the realization of their non-productive assets. Looking back upon the last five years, what seemed to be oruel prolongation of the depression, was, after all, a most fortunate direumstance; for when the return of prosperity was reached, nearly all classes of business men were ready to participate therein; had it come earlier they would have been unprepared to take advantage of the opportunity. It would seem, therefore, that the circumstance; for when the return of prosperity was
